

SONOSKY

SONOSKY, CHAMBERS, SACHSE, ENDRESON & PERRY, LLP

A NATIONAL LAW FIRM DEVOTED TO REPRESENTING NATIVE AMERICAN INTERESTS

Sonosky, Chambers, Sachse, Endreson & Perry, LLP is a national law firm devoted to representing Native American tribal interests in a wide range of endeavors including: trial and appellate litigation, federal Indian law, tribal law, Indian self-determination and self-governance matters, health law, commercial and corporate law, tax law, land claims, natural resources law, public land law, water law, land regulation, hunting and fishing rights, environmental law, toxic torts, jurisdictional conflicts, gaming law, government contracting, hydroelectric development and business development.

The firm's practice includes representation of tribal interests in federal, tribal and state courts, and before Congress, state legislatures and federal and state agencies. We also regularly appear before congressional committees, sometimes as expert witnesses by committee invitation. Members of the firm have also briefed and/or argued more than a score of cases in the United States Supreme Court.

Typical of the firm's clients are tribal governments, Alaskan Native entities, Native American-owned health corporations, regional tribal confederations and Native American health and social service providers. The tribes and Alaskan Native entities we represent range

REID PEYTON CHAMBERS

LLOYD B. MILLER

DOUGLAS B. L. ENDRESON

DONALD J. SIMON

MARY J. PAVEL

DAVID C. MIELKE

COLIN C. HAMPSON

RICHARD D. MONKMAN

MATTHEW S. JAFFE

VANESSA L. RAY-HODGE

FRANK S. HOLLEMAN

REBECCA A. PATTERSON

KENDRI M. M. CESAR

MATTHEW L. MURDOCK

NATHANIEL H. AMDUR-CLARK

WHITNEY A. LEONARD

K. AMANDA SAUNDERS

OF COUNSEL

HARRY R. SACHSE

ANNE D. NOTO

MYRA M. MUNSON

JAMES E. GLAZE

KAY E. MAASSEN-GOUWENS

ROGER W. DUBROCK

GARY F. BROWNELL

from the very smallest to the second largest in the nation, and they are situated throughout the United States. We do not represent non-tribal interests – such as gaming management companies or oil and gas developers – on Indian law matters.

The firm also has an active election law practice and has served as counsel to a major national reform organization, working in Congress, the courts and administrative agencies, to craft and defend major reforms to the nation's campaign finance laws. The firm has twenty-nine lawyers based in five offices in Washington, D.C., Albuquerque, San Diego, Anchorage and Juneau.

The firm was founded in 1976 when Reid Peyton Chambers and Harry Sachse left positions as Associate Solicitor for the Department of the Interior and Assistant to the Solicitor General of the United States Department of Justice, respectively, to join Marvin J. Sonosky, long recognized as one of the nation's leading practitioners of Indian, public lands, minerals and natural resources law. Mr. Sonosky practiced actively with the firm until his death in July 1997. Together our lawyers have over 200 years combined experience in Indian law, and we have handled virtually every kind of matter arising across the broad spectrum of tribal legal needs.

THE FIRM IS PROUD TO BUILD ON THE FOUNDATION ESTABLISHED BY MARVIN J. SONOSKY, WHOSE LONG CAREER WAS DEVOTED TO ADVANCING TRIBAL INTERESTS. MR. SONOSKY WAS A STRONG, DEDICATED ADVOCATE WHO STOOD UP FOR TRIBAL RIGHTS AT A TIME WHEN FEW OTHERS WERE WILLING TO DO SO.

FROM THE 1950'S, MR. SONOSKY PRACTICED LAW ON HIS OWN, SUCCESSFULLY REPRESENTING TRIBAL CLIENTS ACROSS THE COUNTRY. THEN, IN 1976, HE WAS JOINED IN HIS LAW PRACTICE BY TWO OTHER ADVOCATES FOR TRIBES. HARRY SACHSE HAD SERVED AS ASSISTANT TO THE SOLICITOR GENERAL AT THE U.S. DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE – WHERE HE BRIEFED AND ARGUED NUMEROUS LANDMARK INDIAN LAW CASES IN THE SUPREME COURT. REID PEYTON CHAMBERS HAD BEEN ASSOCIATE SOLICITOR FOR INDIAN AFFAIRS AT THE DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR – WHERE HE PROVIDED A STRONG VOICE WITHIN THE GOVERNMENT IN SUPPORT OF TRIBAL RIGHTS.

SINCE ITS FOUNDING IN 1976, THE FIRM HAS ADDED ATTORNEYS, PROFESSIONALS AND OFFICES TO BETTER SERVE INDIAN COUNTRY. THE FIRM HAS GROWN AS THE TRIBES HAVE EXPANDED THE SCOPE OF THEIR GOVERNMENTAL ENDEAVORS. BUT WHILE MUCH HAS CHANGED, THE FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES THAT INSPIRED MR. SONOSKY AND THAT LED TO THE FIRM'S CREATION REMAIN IMPORTANT GUIDEPOSTS FOR THE FIRM. TO PUT IT SIMPLY, SEEKING JUSTICE FOR THE TRIBES CONTINUES TO BE THE CENTRAL CALLING OF THE FIRM. IN THIS WAY, WE ARE PROUD TO CONTINUE AND ADVANCE THE WORK BEGUN BY MR. SONOSKY.

MEMBERS OF THE FIRM

PARTNERS

Reid Peyton Chambers joined the firm in 1976 as a founding partner. Mr. Chambers specializes in litigation, tribal reserved water rights and issues arising out of the federal trust responsibility. He has represented tribes and Alaska Native interests with respect to land claims, water rights, hunting and fishing rights, reservation boundary issues, Alaska tribal rights and immunities, gaming law, tribal court jurisdiction, state and tribal taxation and coal development. Mr. Chambers has also codified tribal laws and engaged in advocacy on behalf of a variety of tribal interests before state and federal agencies and Congress.

Mr. Chambers practiced privately in Washington, D.C. from 1967 to 1970. From 1973 until joining the firm, Mr. Chambers served as Associate Solicitor for Indian Affairs of the U.S. Department of the Interior, the Department's chief legal officer with responsibility over Indian and Alaska Native matters.

Mr. Chambers has published two oft-cited articles in the Stanford Law Review on federal Indian law issues, as well as a number of articles on Indian reserved water rights. He has testified on Indian issues at the invitation of committees of Congress and frequently been invited to speak at the Federal Bar Association's Indian Law meetings and conferences sponsored by other entities such as the Rocky Mountain Mineral Law Foundation.

Mr. Chambers has argued numerous cases before federal district and courts of appeals, and before state tribal courts and appellate courts. In 2003, Mr. Chambers represented the Bishop Paiute Tribe before the U.S. Supreme Court in Inyo County v. Paiute-Shoshone Indians of the Bishop Community, 538 U.S. 701 (2003).

For over thirty years, Mr. Chambers has taught a seminar on federal Indian law at Georgetown University Law School. He has also taught this seminar several times at Yale Law School, and in 1988, served as the Chapman Distinguished Visiting Professor at Tulsa University Law School. Mr. Chambers taught law for three years (1970-1973) as a professor at the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA), working extensively during those years with the Native American Rights Fund and California Indian Legal Services.

Education:

Amherst College, 1962

Harvard Law School, 1967

Balliol College, Oxford, Graduate degree in Politics, Philosophy and Economics

Lloyd B. Miller joined the firm in 1979 and opened the firm's Alaska offices in 1984. Mr. Miller specializes in appellate and trial litigation, as well as congressional advocacy, for tribal governments, inter-tribal organizations, Native American health and social service providers and Native American-owned profit and non-profit corporations.

Mr. Miller's Indian law practice is wide ranging and involves complex litigation, civil and criminal jurisdiction, Indian Self-Determination Act health and social service matters, labor law issues, gaming issues, Indian Child Welfare Act matters, fee and trust land acquisitions, land claims, corporate law, government contract negotiations, and environmental issues. Mr. Miller's significant recent work includes victories in Salazar v. Ramah Navajo Chapter, 132 S. Ct. 218 (2012), Arctic Slope Native Ass'n, Ltd. v. Sebelius, 133 S. Ct. 22 (2012), and Cherokee Nation v. Leavitt, 543 U.S. 631 (2005); follow-on settlements in these and related cases to date totaling nearly $1.7 billion; counsel to the Cherokee Nation in Adoptive Couple v. Baby Girl, 133 S. Ct. 2552 (2013), and counsel to Alaska Native tribal interests in Sturgeon v. Frost, 577 U.S. --- (2019). Mr. Miller is deeply involved in the ongoing MDL National Opioid Litigation, where he represents numerous Tribes and tribal organizations and serves on the Tribal Leadership Committee.

A significant portion of Mr. Miller's career has been devoted to litigation against the federal government on behalf of Tribes and tribal organizations contracting with the United States under the Indian Self-Determination Act, together with related legislative and appropriations work in Congress. Mr. Miller was counsel for the Cherokee Nation and the Shoshone-Paiute Tribes in the leading Supreme Court case setting the Government's liability for contract support cost underpayments, Cherokee Nation v. Leavitt, 543 U.S. 631 (2005). His successes also include the 2012 follow-on victory against the Indian Health Service in Arctic Slope Native Ass'n, v. Sebelius, 133 S. Ct. 22 (2012), on remand ASNA v. Sebelius, 501 Fed. Appx. 957 (Fed. Cir. 2012), and the successful Ramah litigation, Salazar v. Ramah Navajo Chapter, 132 S. Ct. 2181 (2012) (co-counsel to a class of over 600 Tribes and tribal organizations recovering $940 million against the Bureau of Indian Affairs). Mr. Miller has led the firm's successes in recovering over $750 million against the Indian Health Service, and was co-counsel in the groundbreaking Sage litigation against IHS (resolved for $128 million).

Mr. Miller's congressional work has included multiple amendments to the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act, the recent rewrite to the Indian Employment, Training and Related Services Consolidation Act of 2017, and numerous appropriations-related measures.

Mr. Miller was a law clerk to the late James M. Fitzgerald of the United States District Court for the District of Alaska, and for whom the Alaska federal courthouse is named. He has served on the boards of several non-profit organizations and on the Conference Executive Committee for the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. He has also been honored by the National Indian Health Board, the Alaska Legislature, the First Alaskans Institute, and the Healthy Alaska Natives Foundation, all for his work on behalf of Native American interests. Mr. Miller is admitted to practice before the Supreme Court and most of the federal courts of appeals, and is a member of the District of Columbia Bar and the Alaska Bar.

Education:

University of Virginia School of Law, Juris Doctorate and Order of the Coif, 1978

Yale University Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy and Psychology, 1975

Douglas B. L. Endreson is a leading litigator of major, complex Indian law cases. With broad experience in both trial and appellate work, he has successfully litigated a broad range of cases, involving issues including Treaty rights, environmental law, gaming, water rights, taxation and tribal jurisdiction.

For example, when the future of gaming for all the tribes in Wisconsin was seriously threatened by complex litigation raising fundamental questions about its ongoing validity, Mr. Endreson was brought in to serve as lead counsel, managing the litigation for the tribal side. He developed and implemented a strategy to address the challenge, and his efforts succeeded. Indian gaming in Wisconsin was preserved. Dairyland Greyhound Park, Inc. v. Doyle, 719 N.W.2s 408 (Wis. 2006).

Mr. Endreson has also done extensive work protecting tribal rights in connection with federal labor law. For example, he successfully litigated a case establishing the principle that a tribal organization may administer off-reservation treaty rights through the use of game wardens, without the imposition of the Fair Labor Standards Act. Great Lakes Indian Fish and Wildlife Comm'n v. Reich, 4 F.3d 498 (7th Cir. 1993). This remains a leading case in connection with this issue.

Mr. Endreson also provides strategic advice to tribal clients in matters such as negotiating utility rights of way and protecting tribal environmental and cultural resource interests. For example, he successfully represented a tribe in preventing the development of a zinc-copper mine which threatened tribal cultural and historic interests. This involved a multi-disciplinary approach, with the extensive use of experts, in connection with multiple proceedings. As a result of his efforts, the mining company ultimately withdrew its applications, the project did not go forward, and the tribal interests were protected and preserved.

Education:

University of Wisconsin Law School, J.D. with honors, 1978; LL.M., 1980
Colby College, 1975

Donald J. Simon joined the firm as an associate in 1982 and became a partner in 1984. Mr. Simon has worked on litigation and administrative law matters, and has represented tribal interests in water rights, fishing rights, self-determination issues, boundary disputes, jurisdictional matters, sovereignty issues, land claims, Indian gaming and general litigation. He has been co-counsel in administrative and court proceedings involving contract support cost issues under the Indian Self-Determination Act, including as co-class counsel in the breach of contract class action against the United States for underpayment of contract support costs, Salazar v. Ramah Navajo Chapter, 132 S. Ct. 2181 (2012).

Mr. Simon is an expert on campaign finance and election law issues, and has for over thirty years been involved in numerous legislative initiatives and litigation matters on campaign finance and related issues. He also has substantial expertise on issues relating to ethics in government, redistricting, disclosure, and regulation of lobbying. Mr. Simon has testified numerous times before Congress and the Federal Election Commission on issues relating to the interpretation and constitutionality of the federal campaign finance laws. He has also appeared in virtually all major media outlets as a knowledgeable expert on campaign finance and related matters.

From 1995 through 2000, Mr. Simon served as Executive Vice President and General Counsel of Common Cause, where he directed legislative and legal programs for the organization.

Currently, Mr. Simon is general counsel to Democracy 21, a leading campaign finance reform organization. Mr. Simon also has participated in election monitoring on behalf of the National Democratic Institute (Peru, 2000), and has been sponsored by NDI on trips to Russia and Algeria to speak to parliamentarians and the media on issues relating to regulation of politics in the United States.

Education:

Harvard Law School, J.D., cum laude

Harvard College, B.A., magna cum laude

Mary J. Pavel (Skokomish Tribe of Washington) rejoined the firm in 2015 after serving as Staff Director and Chief Counsel for the United States Senate Committee on Indian Affairs. During her tenure, she served two Chairs: Senator Maria Cantwell (D-WA) and Senator Jon Tester (D-MT). As Staff Director and Chief Counsel, Ms. Pavel directed the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs agenda through the Senate. In this capacity, Ms. Pavel played a vital role in the enactment of the reauthorization of the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA), as well as critical legislation that restored tribal land rights, affirmed tribal water rights, and protected tribal health and veterans programs.

Ms. Pavel initially joined the firm in 1992 and became a partner in 1999. She focuses her practice on working with congressional staff and the firm's legislative clients. Her work involves all aspects of legislative practice, including developing legislative strategies, meeting with tribal and congressional delegations and developing testimony. Ms.

Pavel has extensive knowledge of the budget and appropriations process and has developed strong relationships with appropriations and other Hill staff.

Ms. Pavel has worked on some of the largest tribal settlements that Congress has enacted, including the Colville Tribes' Grand Coulee Dam Settlement Act and the Pueblo of Isleta Settlement and Natural Resources Restoration Act. She was also the lead lobbyist on the Fort Peck Reservation Rural Water System Act, which authorized the construction and operation of a $193 million domestic water system to provide safe drinking water to the 30,000 residents of the Fort Peck Indian Reservation and surrounding communities.

Ms. Pavel leads the firm's work on appropriations matters, where she has successfully worked with tribal clients to secure over $100 million in funding for vitally needed projects in their communities including roads, schools, and hospitals. She has also worked with a number of Tribes to address their land issues in Congress, including having land taken into trust for gaming purposes, restoring land to a Tribe because of its religious and cultural significance, and expanding tribal leasing authority.

Ms. Pavel has also worked on a number of national initiatives including amendments to the Federal Unemployment Tax Act, which secured Tribes parity to be treated as governments under this Act; reauthorization of the Indian Healthcare Improvement Act; the Tribal Law and Order Act, and the Violence Against Women Act. In addition, she actively worked to resist Congressional efforts to tax tribal revenues, abrogate tribal sovereign immunity, and impose State taxes for retail sales on tribal lands.

Education:

University of Washington School of Law, J.D., 1992

Dartmouth College, B.A. in Sociology, 1988

David C. Mielke has been a partner since 2000, establishing the firm's Albuquerque office. Mr. Mielke primarily provides general counsel services to tribal clients in New Mexico, representing them on a wide range of matters and issues, including gaming, employment, business operations and development, land, rights-of-way, jurisdiction, tribal codes, water rights, and legislative matters. Prior to moving to Albuquerque, he was a partner in a Washington, D.C. firm, where he practiced in the areas of business and commercial law, employment law and litigation, Indian claims litigation, and Indian law.

Education:

Georgetown University Law Center, cum laude, 1986

University of Maryland, B.A., cum laude, 1979

Colin Cloud Hampson (Winnebago Tribe of Nebraska and the White Earth Band of Chippewa) joined the firm in 1994, established the San Diego office in 1999, and became a partner in 2003. Mr. Hampson represents tribes and tribal organizations on a wide range of Indian law matters including gaming, commercial and economic development matters, gaming regulation, energy, water, construction, jurisdiction, recognition, legislative issues, environmental law, health care, tax, Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act, employment, election, administrative law and general counsel matters.

Mr. Hampson has represented tribes and tribal organizations in litigation in federal, tribal and state court as well as before federal agencies. He has represented tribes in litigation involving water rights, jurisdictional disputes, tribal sovereignty and self-determination issues. In commercial matters, he has reviewed and negotiated agreements related to the financing, development and construction of new or expansions of tribal casinos and other facilities, operation of federal programs under the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act, professional services, gaming machine leases, and real estate transactions involving trust and fee lands. Mr. Hampson has drafted organic documents for tribal and Indian-owned entities for business enterprises and a tribal permanent fund trust. He has reviewed and advised on proposals for business opportunities and assisted with due diligence of proposed business partners, including proposals for casino development, wind energy, media programming, and pharmacy sales.

Mr. Hampson has also advised tribal clients on a range of tax issues in economic development and other circumstances. He has represented tribal health departments and organizations on a range of health care issues.

Education:

Stanford Law School, with distinction, J.D., 1994

Stanford University, M.A. in International Policy Studies and a B.A. in American History, 1991

Richard D. Monkman joined the firm in 2003 and became a partner in 2007. Mr. Monkman advises tribes and tribal organizations in all aspects of their health care operations, including compliance, employment, contracts, medical staff organizational issues, accreditation, negotiation with federal and state authorities, and medical licensing and credentialing matters. Mr. Monkman frequently represents tribes and tribal organizations in health care related litigation, including appellate cases, and represents Alaska Native corporations in a wide range of commercial matters.

Before joining the firm, Mr. Monkman was managing partner of an Alaska law firm, with a practice focused on health care and related matters. He previously served the State of Alaska as Assistant Attorney General, Deputy Commissioner of Revenue and Deputy Commissioner of Commerce. During his public service, Mr. Monkman represented the Alaska Public Offices Commission and the Alaska State Medical Board, was Alaska's representative on the National Association of Attorneys General Antitrust Task Force, and represented the State of Alaska in the Tobacco Litigation. During his tenure at Northeastern University School of Law, Mr. Monkman had the privilege of interning with the Native American Rights Fund.

Education:

Northeastern University School of Law, J.D., 1980

Dartmouth College, cum laude with honors, 1976

Matthew S. Jaffe joined the firm in 1999, and became a partner in 2011. Mr. Jaffe regularly advises Indian tribes, Alaska Native villages and Indian organizations on a wide range of legal matters involving the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act, transportation, housing, public infrastructure, construction, financing and federal contracting law. He has advised Indian tribes and worked with federal officials concerning the development of regulations under the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act (ISDEAA), the Native American Housing Assistance and Self-Determination Act (NAHASDA) and the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century (TEA-21) (IRR Program).

Since joining the firm, Mr. Jaffe has worked extensively on transportation issues affecting Indian country, and advocated for the transportation infrastructure needs of Indian reservations and communities. Mr. Jaffe also served as an advocate for tribes on passage of the tribal transportation provisions that were enacted as part of SAFETEA-LU, helped to develop advance construction agreements used by the BIA and Indian tribes and the first-of-its-kind IRR Program Agreement used by tribes and the Federal Highway Administration, and works frequently with tribal and federal representatives to the Tribal Transportation Program (TTP) Coordinating Committee. A major part of Mr. Jaffe's practice is devoted to providing legal assistance to tribal clients so that they may effectively implement the transportation programs made available under these federal laws to address their transportation needs. He has spoken at regional and national tribal transportation conferences and meetings concerning the TTP and federal transportation legislation.

Education:

George Washington University National Law Center, J.D., 1986

State University of New York at Binghamton, B.A., 1983, with honors

Vanessa L. Ray-Hodge is a Partner in the Albuquerque office of Sonosky, Chambers, Sachse, Endreson & Perry, LLP. Ms. Ray-Hodge works in all areas of the firm's practice with a special focus in water rights and energy and economic development issues. Ms. Ray-Hodge also regularly advises and represents tribal clients on matters involving land into trust, reservation boundary issues, treaty rights, tribal jurisdiction and regulation, gaming, natural resources development, and infrastructure development. She regularly assists tribes in navigating issues related to federal environmental and regulatory compliance statutes and in working with federal agencies at the local and national level.

Prior to rejoining Sonosky, Ms. Ray-Hodge served as the Senior Counselor to Solicitor Hilary Tompkins at the Department of the Interior. At Interior, Ms. Ray-Hodge advised the Solicitor on Indian Affairs issues and was integral in a multitude of decisions. Some of her key efforts included addressing the Supreme Court's decision in Carcieri v. United States, to continue to take land into trust for tribes, culminating in the Solicitor's M-Opinion 37029 (March 12, 2014); participating in settling tribal trust lawsuits, including working with the Secretary's Trust Reform Commission; advising senior Departmental officials on tribal consultation requirements, economic and natural resources development issues in Indian country, including oil and gas operations, and Indian gaming and water rights litigation and settlement issues.

Ms. Ray-Hodge attended Wellesley College graduating in 2000 with a major in Anthropology. She went on to Columbia Law School graduating in 2003 with honors as a Harlan Fiske Stone Scholar. Ms. Ray-Hodge is licensed in Oregon, New Mexico and Washington D.C.

Education:

Columbia Law School, J.D., 2003

Wellesley College, B.A., 2000

Frank S. Holleman joined the firm in 2012 and became a partner in 2017. He works in all areas of the firm's practice. He graduated from the Columbia Law School in 2012, where he was a managing editor on the Columbia Journal of Law and Social Problems, Head Editor of the Native American Law Student Association moot court team, and a Harlan Fiske Stone Scholar. He also interned at the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit and the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York.

Mr. Holleman has experience in federal and tribal court litigation and focuses on issues related to federal labor law, water rights and riverbed ownership, cultural resource protection, environmental regulation, gaming, and tribal jurisdiction.

Education:

Columbia Law School, J.D., 2012

Duke University, A.B. Political Science and History, 2009

Rebecca A. Patterson joined the firm's Anchorage office in 2013 and became a partner in 2017. Rebecca works in all areas of the firm's practice. Before joining the firm, Rebecca clerked for Chief Justice Walter L. Carpeneti (Ret.) of the Alaska Supreme Court and Judge Sharon L. Gleason of the U.S. District Court for the District of Alaska.

Rebecca graduated from Harvard Law School in 2011, where she served as Assistant Managing Editor for the Civil Rights-Civil Liberties Law Review and was deeply involved in several public interest programs that assisted criminal defendants. Before law school, Becca worked on immigration issues at the Legal Assistance Foundation of Metropolitan Chicago.

Education:Harvard Law School, J.D., 2011*Washington University in St. Louis, B.A., summa cum laude, 2007

Kendri M. M. Cesar (Central Council of the Tlingit and Haida Indian Tribes of Alaska) joined the firm's Juneau office in 2013, and became a partner in 2017. Kendri works in all areas of the firm's practice.

Kendri graduated from Harvard Law School in 2012, where she was involved in the Harvard Native American Law Students Association as well as several programs focusing on criminal justice, including the Harvard Prison Legal Assistance Project, the Harvard Defenders, and the Criminal Justice Institute. During law school, Kendri interned at the firm's Juneau office in 2010. She also interned at the Southern Center for Human Rights in Atlanta, Georgia and Equal Justice Initiative in Montgomery, Alabama. Prior to law school, Kendri worked as a committee aide for Senator Donald Olson of the Alaska State Legislature. She received her B.A. from Dartmouth College in 2008, majoring in environmental studies and minoring in Arabic language.

Education:Harvard Law School, J.D., 2012*Dartmouth College, B.A., 2008

Matthew L. Murdock (Mandan, Hidatsa, and Arikara Nation) joined the firm in 2013 and became partner in 2019. Matt works in all areas of the firm's practice. Mr. Murdock has advised tribes on issues relating to the applicability of federal employment and labor laws to tribes, banishment and exclusion, gaming, Indian preference, taxation in Indian country, Indian general welfare benefits, and contracting and compacting under the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act.

Mr. Murdock has represented tribes and tribal officials in litigation on issues regarding sovereign immunity, tribal sovereignty, employment, and the National Labor Relations Act. Mr. Murdock also has experience in entity formation and structuring, including pro bono work to help tribal members on his tribe's reservation establish a non-profit corporation for language and cultural revitalization.

Matt graduated cum laude from the Arizona State University College of Law, where he received the Dean's Award for outstanding performance in law school. While in law school, Matt was a law clerk for the General Counsel of the Gila River Indian Community and a research assistant for Professor Rebecca Tsosie. Matt received his B.A. in political science from the University of Arizona.

Education:Arizona State University College of Law, J.D., cum laude, 2013*University of Arizona, B.A., 2009

Nathaniel Amdur-Clark (Citizen Potawatomi Nation) rejoined the firm's DC office as an Associate in 2018 after a two-year stint teaching Federal Indian Law and Legislative Advocacy at the University of Florida Levin College of Law. Mr. Amdur-Clark previously worked as an Associate for 2014-2016, as well as a summer associate and law clerk in 2012 and 2013. He works in all areas of the firm's practice. He is a member of the Alaska and District of Columbia bars.

Mr. Amdur-Clark graduated from Harvard Law School in 2014, where he was involved in the Harvard Native American Law Students Association and served on the Board of the National Native American Law Students Association. During law school, he was active on the Harvard Law and Policy Review and interned at the Office of Tribal Justice and Civil Appellate Division at the U.S. Department of Justice.

In addition to his law degree, Mr. Amdur-Clark has a Master in Public Policy Degree from the Harvard Kennedy School, where he was a Harvard Kennedy School Native American Public Service Fellow. He graduated in 2009 from Harvard College with a Bachelor of Arts cum laude in Anthropology.

Education:

Harvard Law School, J.D., 2014

Harvard Kennedy School, M.P.P., 2014

Harvard University, B.A., 2009

ASSOCIATES

Whitney A. Leonard joined the firm in 2017. She works in all areas of the firm's practice, with a particular interest in Native land rights, environmental justice, and treaty hunting and fishing rights. Before joining the firm, Ms. Leonard clerked for Chief Judge Sidney Thomas of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit and Justice Dana Fabe (Ret.) of the Alaska Supreme Court.

Ms. Leonard graduated from Yale Law School in 2015, where she served as a Comments Editor for the Yale Law Journal and served on the boards of the Native American Law Students Association and the Yale Environmental Law Association. Prior to law school, Ms. Leonard worked on land and wildlife conservation in Montana. Ms. Leonard received her B.A. from Williams College in 2008.

Education:

Yale Law School, J.D., 2015

Williams College, B.A., 2008

K. Amanda Saunders joined the firm in 2019 and works in all areas of the firm's practice. Before joining the firm, Ms. Saunders clerked for Justice Craig Stowers of the Alaska Supreme Court. She is a member of the California Bar.

Ms. Saunders graduated from UC Davis School of Law in 2018, where she served as Executive Editor of the Environmental Law and Policy Journal, Chair of the Environmental Law Society, and on the Executive Board of the King Hall Negotiations Team. During law school, she also interned at a variety of environmental organizations.

Prior to law school, Ms. Saunders worked on environmental and energy issues in Colorado. Ms. Saunders received her B.A. in environmental studies from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 2010.

Education

University of California, Davis, School of Law, J.D., 2018

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, B.A, 2010

OF COUNSEL

Harry R. Sachse, a founding partner of the firm, specializes in litigation and negotiations concerning land claims, hydropower, fishing rights, water rights, oil and gas issues, and gaming. He was the principal attorney in the Puyallup Land Settlement and the Colville Grand Coulee Settlement – two landmark settlements.

From 1971 to 1976, Mr. Sachse was an Assistant to the Solicitor General of the United States, U.S. Department of Justice. In this role, he argued ten major cases in the Supreme Court including such historic cases as McClanahan v. Arizona Tax Commission, 411 U.S. 164 (1973) (state taxation of reservation income); Washington Department of Game v. Puyallup Tribe, 414 U.S. 44 (1973) (Indian fishing and hunting rights); United States v. Mazurie, 419 U.S. 544 (1975) (tribal governmental powers); and Morton v. Mancari, 417 U.S. 535 (1974) (preference in the hiring of Native Americans). Immediately before that, Mr. Sachse had been Assistant General Counsel of the U.S. Agency for International Development.

Mr. Sachse, as an adjunct professor, has taught American Indian Law and Appellate Advocacy at the University of Virginia School of Law, American Indian Law at Harvard Law School, and the Rights of Indigenous Peoples in International and Comparative Law at The Georgetown University Law Center.

Education:

Louisiana State University, J.D., 1957

University of Paris, diploma in comparative law

Louisiana State University, 1955

Anne D. Noto joined the firm as an associate in 1986 and became a partner in 1993. She has successfully represented tribal clients before the U.S. Court of Federal Claims in government mismanagement cases involving tribal funds, lands, and timber. She also has significant experience in litigation involving jurisdictional issues, sovereign immunity, treaty rights, trust land acquisitions, and a variety of other matters affecting tribal interests.

Ms. Noto has particular expertise in tribal and treaty history and the intersection of that history with current legal issues of importance to tribes, including the exercise of treaty hunting, fishing and gathering rights, reservation boundaries, trust land acquisitions, and claims against the federal government.

Ms. Noto has also devoted a substantial part of her career to providing general counsel services to tribes, with a special focus on advising tribes ~~on tribal and state tax matters~~, gaming regulation, and implementation of treaty hunting, fishing and gathering rights. Her practice has also regularly involved lobbying before Congress as well as advocating for tribes in matters before administrative agencies, including agency development of policies and regulations affecting Indian interests.

Education:

George Washington University National Law Center, J.D. with high honors, 1986

Cornell University, B.A., 1980

Myra M. Munson founded the Juneau office of our firm in 1990, after serving as Commissioner of the Alaska Department of Health and Social Services from 1986 to 1990. Her nationwide practice emphasizes self-determination and self-governance, the Indian Health Care Improvement Act (IHCIA), Medicaid and other third-party reimbursement issues, and other tribal health program operations issues.

Ms. Munson has represented tribes in planning and assuming programs and negotiating Title I and Title V agreements with the Indian Health Service (IHS) in more than half of the IHS Areas. She served on the negotiated rule making committees for the Title IV and Title V regulations.

She was a technical advisor to the IHCIA National Steering Committee from its inception; assisted in drafting and editing substantial sections of the reauthorization; and testified before the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs. Since its adoption as part of the Affordable Care Act, she has conducted innumerable training programs at national and regional conferences and for individual tribes and tribal organizations, as well as assisting tribal health programs to implement various provisions of the IHCIA and ACA.

Ms. Munson is also a member of the NIHB Medicare & Medicaid Policy Committee, and a technical advisor to the CMS Tribal Technical Advisory Group since their inception. She actively serves on a number of subcommittees, including ACA Policy, Tribal Consultation, and Regulation Review.

In other areas of practice, Ms. Munson worked with Alaska Tribal Health Programs to draft the Community Health Aide Program Standards, including the standards for Dental Health Aide Therapists, and now assists tribes and organizations considering expansion of these services in other locations. She has worked on state redistricting matters with Donald Simon of our DC office.

Ms. Munson was born in Juneau, Alaska and grew up in Fairbanks, Alaska. She earned her bachelor's degree at University of Alaska Fairbanks in 1972, and her law degree and master's degree in social work at the University of Denver in 1980 – both with distinction. Ms. Munson is currently serving on the Board of Alaska Legal Services Corporation.

In 2003, Ms. Munson was awarded the Alaska Federation of Native's Denali Award, and in 2011, the Healthy Alaska Natives Foundation awarded her its President's Award for promoting public understanding of Alaska Native health and wellness issues.

Education:

University of Denver School of Law, J.D. while simultaneously earning an MSW degree, 1980

James E. Glaze joined the firm in 1993. He assists tribal clients on a wide range of legal matters, including litigation and negotiations under the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act, federal construction and public infrastructure projects (including health clinics, hospitals, schools, tribal justice centers, water treatment and supply systems, road and bridge projects), labor law, employment law and tribal governance matters. He also leads the firm's transportation and public infrastructure practice and regularly is asked to speak at national and regional tribal conferences. Mr. Glaze helped to develop many first-of-their-kind tribal funding agreements, including the first tribal transportation innovative financing agreement, the first IRR Program self-governance compact, the first FHWA IRR Program Agreements and many Tribal-State fund transfer agreements.

Mr. Glaze served as an attorney advisor to the tribal members of the Indian Reservation Roads (IRR) Negotiated Rulemaking Committee and the IHS Self-Governance Negotiated Rulemaking Committee. He also played a leading national advocacy role in the development of the tribal transportation program and funding provisions included in the Safe, Accountable, Flexible and Efficient Transportation Equity Act: A Legacy for Users (SAFETEA-LU) and the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA). Following passage of these laws, Mr. Glaze worked closely with tribal and federal officials to implement new tribal transportation programs within the U.S. Department of Transportation, including the Tribal Transit Grant Program, the Federal Highway Administration-Federal Lands Highways (FHWA-FLH) IRR Program, and the Tribal Scenic Byways Program.

Education:

University of California, Davis, J.D., 1991

University of California, San Diego, M.A., 1987

Humboldt State University, B.A., magna cum laude, 1984

Kay E. Maassen Gouwens joined the firm's Anchorage Office in 1991 following eight years with the Alaska Attorney General's Office. Her tenure there included two years as Special Assistant Attorney General in the Office of the Governor under Governor Steve Cowper, and several years as an Assistant Attorney General in the Natural Resources and Commercial Law Sections. Her experience prior to joining the firm spanned diverse areas including Alaska Native affairs, oil spill litigation and legislation, public land law, health and social service issues, telecommunications, hazardous wastes, air pollution, fisheries issues, licensing board matters, and representation of the Alaska Public Offices Commission. Ms. Gouwens has successfully litigated a number of major cases involving the Indian-Self Determination Act. She became a partner in 1994, and in 2002 became of counsel to the firm.

Education:

Harvard Law School, J.D., 1981

Hope College in Michigan, B.A., ~~magna cum laude, 1977~~

Gary F. Brownell joined the firm as a partner in 2001 after serving for six years in the Department of Justice of the Ho-Chunk Nation, first as a Tribal Attorney and then, from 1997 to 2001 as Attorney General. In that position, he supervised an eight-lawyer legal department handling a wide range of tribal legal issues. Since joining the firm, his practice has focused in the areas of gaming, economic development, financing, taxation, housing, personnel relations, employee benefits and code development. Prior to joining the Ho-Chunk Nation Department of Justice, Mr. Brownell was a partner in a Buffalo, New York firm where he concentrated in corporate finance, business combinations and divestitures, and tax planning.

Education:

Cornell University School of Law, J.D., 1980

University of Notre Dame, B.A., 1977

Roger W. DuBrock has been collaborating with the firm in its Alaska practice since 1984 and has served as counsel since 1986. He collaborates with the firm on selected client matters for individuals, village corporations and regional non-profit health and social service organizations. Mr. DuBrock obtained an A.B. in 1964 from Brown University where he graduated Phi Beta Kappa with high honors. He received his L.L.M. in 1967 from Harvard University Law School.

Mr. DuBrock also spent one year of study at Edinburgh University in Edinburgh, Scotland. He has been in private practice in Alaska since 1967, excluding six years when he served as a state District Court judge in Sitka, Alaska (1969-1975). From 1975 to 2002, he practiced in Anchorage emphasizing village and regional Native corporation matters, rural municipal government matters, general commercial practice, construction litigation, and personal injury litigation.

Education:

Harvard University Law School, L.L.M., 1967

Edinburgh University in Edinburgh, Scotland, one year of study

Brown University, A.B., 1964, with high honors

SONOSKY

SONOSKY, CHAMBERS, SACHSE, ENDRESON & PERRY, LLP

A NATIONAL LAW FIRM DEVOTED TO REPRESENTING NATIVE AMERICAN INTERESTS

PRACTICE AREAS

- ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
- ALAKSA NATIVE LAW
- CHILD WEFARE
- CONSTRUCTION & TRANSPORTATION
- EMPLOYMENT LAW
- ENVIRONMENTAL LAW
- GAMING
- GENERAL COUNSEL
- HEALTH LAW
- HOUSING
- JURISDICTION & TRIBAL SOVEREGINTY
- LEGISLATION & LOBBYING

SONOSKY, CHAMBERS, SACHSE
 ENDRESON & PERRY, LLP
 1425 K STREET, N.W.
 SUITE 600
 WASHINGTON, DC 20005

SONOSKY, CHAMBERS, SACHSE
 MILLER & MUNSON, LLP
 725 EAST FIREWEED LANE
 SUITE 420
 ANCHORAGE, ALASKA 99501

SONOSKY, CHAMBERS, SACHSE
 MILLER & MUNSON, LLP
 302 GOLD STREET
 SUITE 201
 JUNEAU, ALASKA 99801

SONOSKY, CHAMBERS, SACHSE
 MIELKE & BROWNELL, LLP
 500 MARQUETTE AVENUE, N.W.
 SUITE 660
 ALBUQUERQUE, NEW MEXICO 87102

SONOSKY, CHAMBERS, SACHSE
 ENDRESON & PERRY, LLP
 145 WILLOW STREET
 SUITE 200
 BONITA, CALIFORNIA 91902

PRACTICE AREAS

- LITIGATION:
TRIAL, APPELLATE AND SUPREME COURT
- NATURAL RESOURCES
- SELF-DETERMINATION AND SELF-GOVERNANCE
- TAX LAW
- TREATY RIGHTS
- TRIBAL CODES
- TRIBAL ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT
- TRUST LAND ACQUISITIONS
- TRUST RESPONSIBILITY
- WATER RIGHTS